Celebrating its 11th year, the SEOY Award India has established itself as one of the most reputed and coveted awards for social entrepreneurs in India. The award recognises entrepreneurs who implement innovative, sustainable and scalable solutions to solve India's social problems. In 2010, the Schwab Foundation for Social Entrepreneurship and Jubilant Bhartia Foundation came together to promote social innovation in India through the Social Entrepreneur of the Year (SEOY) India Award.

The Schwab Foundation for Social Entrepreneurship, the sister organisation of the World Economic Forum and the Jubilant Bhartia Foundation of Jubilant Bhartia Group announced Ashraf Patel of Pravah & ComMutiny Youth Collective (CYC) as the winner of the Social Entrepreneur of the Year Award - India 2020 on 26th November 2020.

The award was presented by Smt. Smriti Zubin Irani, Honorable Minister of Women & Child Development & Textiles, Government of India at a virtual ceremony in presence of eminent personalities from different fields from across the world. Congratulating the winner and appreciating the finalists of this year's SEOY Award India 2020, Smt. Smriti Zubin Irani said, "I acknowledge and appreciate the contribution of Schwab Foundation and Jubilant Bhartia Foundation in celebrating social entrepreneurs. I would like to congratulate all the social entrepreneurs who have been considered by the esteemed jury for this prestigious award. This award today highlights to the rest of our country, that compassion is not only the most endearing but also an equally profitable business skill. Those who have come to this platform are the champions of digital India."

Award Benefits

Ashraf Patel will join Schwab Foundation's global network of social innovators. She will have the opportunity to participate in relevant summits and meeting of the World Economic Forum (WEF) in Davos. These provide unprecedented access to global decision makers from the public, corporate, media, academic and civil society sectors.

She will also get an opportunity to apply for the Hindustan Times Fellowship for Stanford Seed Transformation programme.

The SEOY Award India 2020 winner – Ashraf Patel has been bringing revolutionary change through development of a generation of empathetic, sensitive youth change-makers in India.

Co-founded by Ashraf Patel, Pravah has been facilitating the development of a generation of empathetic, sensitive youth change-makers in India through psycho-social interventions, helping them build more inclusive identities and societies hence bringing about revolutionary changes. With a belief that leaders are created in spaces which are safe, empowering, and inclusive, a unique approach to youth development in the form of the '5th Space' has been developed. The 5th Space focuses on transforming young people by engaging them in deep self-exploration and supporting their social action experiments to become change-makers and awakened active citizens. It nurtures social inclusion, holistic development and fosters social hope by promoting feelings of freedom, ownership, love and learning and growth. With credence in its strategy and approach of creating 'Abilities beyond skill' Pravah has produced over 50 different designs of self to society journeys for different youth audiences ranging from urban middle-class young people to youth from rural and tribal backgrounds.

ComMutiny - The Youth Collective: Incubated by Pravah in collaboration with some of the best youth engaging organizations in the country acts as a vibrant national community of practice that promotes youth centric spaces through joint programming and public engagement on contemporary issues. A multi-sectoral formulation, called the VartaLeap coalition is also emerging from this eco-system to realise the mission of 'Every Youth a Jagrik and Every Space Nurturing Jagriks', that places youth duties and rights at the centre of all programming and policies in relation to youth and spaces that engage and influence young people in the country.

Together Pravah and ComMutiny-The Youth Collective (CYC) have nurtured 6,80,000 young leaders, worked with over 1200 youth-centric organisations and 100 civil society groups across 17 states in the country.

iKure, Kolkata

iKure works towards bringing quality, affordable and accessible healthcare at the doorstep of communities in India. It works with the vision of achieving zero mortality due to lack of primary healthcare. iKure provides door-to-door consultation, assisted telemedicine with referral and escalation, health packages, drugs and medical supplies, pathological tests, & eye tests through use of innovative technology (unique devices and software systems), trained frontline community health workers and a strong network of Hub & Spoke clinics in rural as well as urban India.

There are significant gaps in access and quality of primary health care in India. Traditional health related screenings and diagnosis don't guarantee effective care and there is limited availability of specialist doctors at primary health care level. Most of the mortality and morbidity due to primary healthcare are preventable in India. iKure utilizes the local community members, provides them specialised medical training and equips them with a unique medical bag with simple but unique point-of-care devices inside the comfort of people's homes in rural as well as urban India. These devices carried door-to-door, can diagnose seriousness of disease on time. In over a decade's time, iKure has served a population of over 10.2 million people in 5,200 villages across seven states of India. It has partnerships with over 220 varied organisations like research & technology partners and 1,550 Self Help Groups.

www.letsrecycle.in

With the belief that 'waste is a commodity', NEPRA endeavours to solve India's dry waste management problem through its inclusive, transparent and tech-driven socio-business model. Its services spread pan-India include - waste collection, processing & recycling through its state of the art Material Recovery Facilities (MRFs), environmental compliance advisory to Companies, awareness among others.

The waste management sector in India is highly unorganised, inefficient and exploitative. The potential of waste management and its benefits are unexplored and under-utilised. Additionally, the sector is mostly driven by the informal manpower that includes waste-pickers, sweepers and other Bottom of the Economic Pyramid (BoEP) members.

NEPRA solves multiple challenges of India's dry waste management sector, like lack of infrastructure, transparency & traceability, informal set-up, lack of awareness etc through its socio-business model. It has formed a unique 'waste value chain' by creating demand and supply of recyclable and non-recyclable products, incentivization for waste collection and by building a strong network of collectors, buyers and waste generators. It uniquely engages with the informal sector workers as its main stakeholder.

NEPRA has built a one-of-its-kind database of over 2000+ waste pickers through its engagement. It has worked with 40 local Government authorities so far and in the last two years, has successfully recycled 67109 MT of dry waste. NEPRA is helping in making the unorganised dry waste management sector organised, lucrative and transparent and is helping change the way waste is collected and dumped through the use of technology like GPS, Facial Recognition, ERP systems etc. For Multi-Layered Packaging, it has tie-ups with urban local bodies and upliftment of small waste management NGOs or start-ups in 18 states in India.
